research project about middle years learners on the autism spectrum

Looking for participants

• Educators
• Parents and caregivers
• Specialists
• Students aged 9–16 years who are, or you think might be, on the autism spectrum

For an online survey

The survey intends to capture the views of educators, parents, caregivers, specialists, and students about:

• Why families choose alternate education settings including autism specialist schools, flexible learning options, distance education and home education?
• What role the student plays in the decision-making process.
• What works well in alternate education settings?
• What additional help and support would benefit the systems currently in alternate education settings?
• How this information can be used to inform work in traditional mainstream settings?

Data collected will help inform more inclusive and supportive approaches to students on the autism spectrum more broadly.

How to become involved?

Please click this survey link https://survey.qut.edu.au/f/194290/d7c7/ or scan the QR code
If you have any questions please email mybsp-research@qut.edu.au

Middle Years Behaviour Support Program